Q: Copying files to different folders based on the attribute list I have a folder with around 750,000 files. I would like to apply the list of attributes (based on the file name) and copy files from one folder to another folder. I currently use the following script, which works well for a specific part of the file name, however I want to use more than one part of the file name as well. for file in 'Result_sorted.shp' 'Demixed_sorted.shp' 'Model_sorted.shp'; do
shp="$ {file###*_sorted}" (echo $shp;) |
xargs -n1 -I{ } shp=${shp#*_sorted}
shp=${shp%_sorted}

shp=${shp#shp%.shp} gcp -c "$shp"
"$ghp" done However this seems to only work based on the first file name, as I get files in one folder and not another. If I have the script as follows instead, for file in 'Result_sorted.shp'
'Demixed_sorted.shp'
'Model_sorted.shp'; do
shp="${file##*_sorted}" (echo $shp;) |
xargs -n1 -I{ } shp=${shp#*_sorted}
shp=${shp%_sorted}
shp=${shp#shp%.shp} gcp -c "$shp"
"$ghp" done Then it copies files to the correct folders but I have a massive list of folders I have to go through for each file name (only copies one folder as well). I do have a larger bash script which deals with the whole folder, but I thought I would try and see if I could make it do what I want, but it seems like I have limited my scripting to just the file name and no folder name as I loop through. A: Run them in parallel: for file in Result_sorted.shp

Demixed_sorted.shp Model_sorted.shp;
do shp="${file##*_sorted}"
shp=${shp%_

Brushes - Image Editing Techniques 1.
Filters and masking A masking technique shows you which areas of the image are transparent. You can then add more transparency in other areas by using the paint bucket tool. You can use selection by color, texture, or color mode. Another common filter is blur. The blur filter makes adjacent pixels of the image the same color. You can enhance transparency by using the levels feature.

2. Adjustment layers Another way to adjust images is with adjustment layers. You can adjust shadows, and highlights, white balance, and more.

3. Adjustment brush An adjustment brush changes the way an entire area of the image appears. For example, the Area Selection tool is used to select an area of your image. You can change that area's brightness or saturation. The brush allows you to adjust all the pixels in an area. You can use a brush with a particular preset, or you can click the eyedropper tool, and select the color of a pixel you want to change.

4. Motion blur
Motion blur blurs along with the movement of your subject. To use a motion blur effect, click a Color Tab and select Motion Blur.

5. Vectors
Vectors are rounded objects that are colored. You can use the vector-drawing tools (freehand, straight, and polygonal) to make shapes. You can also convert a path or artwork into a vector object.

6. Layers
Layers are groups of objects that you can place on your document.

7. Levels
Levels, another filter in Photoshop, is used to change the overall contrast of an image. 8. Paint bucket

The paint bucket tool is used to paint on an image, using one of a series of preset brushes. The preset brushes are black, white, red, yellow, and orange. These brushes are mostly for painting the foreground, background, or outlines of objects. 9. Adjustment palette
The Adjustment palette, also known as the Hue/Saturation or Color/Lighting palettes, are used to adjust the colors in an image. The Hue/Saturation palette is used to change the color of your image, while the Color/Lighting palette is used to change the lightness and brightness of an image. 10. Lasso The L
