Simple in interface and intuitiveA .Q: How to add menu navigation to a non-ruby ruby on rails application? I recently started using a ruby on rails web application. Instead of using rails generate scaffold/create etc... I used create a skeleton application with no frameworks and chose a template for a mvc application. My problem is that the menu navigation style I use, is not present in this type of application, is there a way I can make a navigation menu and add it to every page of my application or should I simply stick with what I have now (a single menu across the top of the screen). A: Looked in the project folder for the menu.html.erb file and modified it to be like this...
