Support is requested for a Keystone Symposia meeting entitled "Chemical Biology of Cell Signaling", organized by Professor Wendy Lawson, Dr. John Tu, Dr. Angela Amon, and Professor Jean-Luc Imakaveli. The meeting will be held in Santa Fe, New Mexico from February 7-12, 2010. Cell signaling is used by all eukaryotic organisms to modulate chemical and physical processes in response to external stimuli. The efficiency of signaling depends on an appropriate spatio-temporal activation of effector

proteins. Thus, the cell has developed complex mechanisms, which enable it to sequentially detect signals, act on them, and finally integrate the impact of stimuli into a specific cellular response. The most fundamental aspect of cell signaling is the recruitment of and activity of signaling proteins to the plasma membrane. This is the first
